

Rena Clark
Partner, GenNx360

Rena Clark is a Partner at GenNx360 Capital Partners, a private equity firm. She has over 20 years of general management and entrepreneurial experience including serving as President and CEO of a commercial printing company and a large international corporation in the specialty chemicals industry.

Rena also served as Vice President for the Kraft Sports Group and the New England Patriots where she oversaw all corporate giving activities and strategic community initiatives. She served as the Director and Chief Operating Officer for Harvard Business School's MBA Program with responsibility for admissions, financial aid and all student services. Earlier in her career, she worked at Bain & Co. and held various positions in manufacturing operations at GE.

Rena volunteers with a number of non-profit organizations; GenNx Foundation Inc., chair; The Chestnut Hill School, trustee & treasurer; Lasell College, trustee. In addition she was honored with the Pathfinder Award by the Johnson Publishing Co. for her excellence in the community and by the African American students and alumni of Harvard Business School with the alumni award for community service.

Rena earned a B.S. in mechanical engineering with honors from Lamar University and an M.B.A. from Harvard Business School.